Hubblecast Episode 119: The crab of the southern sky	Visual notes
00:00 [Narrator] 1. 29 years ago, the Space Shuttle Discovery launched carrying a precious cargo: the Hubble Space Telescope. Each year this revolutionary telescope takes an image of a special object to commemorate the anniversary of its launch. This year it has revisited an object it demystified over twenty years ago: the Southern Crab Nebula. The new, stunning image of this dynamic object celebrates Hubble's achievements, past, present, and future.
